Mansion or Cottage

A rich woman dreamed she went to Heaven, where she saw a mansion being built. "Who is that for?" she asked the guide who was showing her around. "For your gardener." "But he lives in the tiniest cottage around, with barely enough room for his family," she replied. "He might live better if he didn't give away everything he owned to other poor people." Farther on she saw a tiny cottage under construction. "And who is that for?" she asked. "This is for you." "But I have lived in a mansion on earth," she stammered. "I wouldn't know how to live in such a tiny cottage." "You must understand that the Master Builder is doing the best he can with the material you are sending up," her guide replied.

Compassion is difficult to give away because it keeps coming back.

How dearly blessed are those the Lord has chosen to see the good in every day they face...
To count not years but blessings of the spirit..
To live with simple joy..
And age with grace.
